

What is your Cookies Policy?

Cookies are nuggets of data stored on your computer to make it easier, and quicker, for regular users to log onto a site. Such data is usually stored on your computer's hard drive as a file or folder called 'cookies' and can be deleted if you so choose. Our cookies do not contain any personally identifying information or compromise your privacy.

If you have disabled cookies on your browser, please note that you will need to enable them in order to add items to your Shopping Cart and to make purchases on this site.

We may use demographic data from 3rd party sources in order to provide our customers with an enhanced and quality service.